The Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues turn in a spirited performance but lose the Ampol State of Origin series to surrender the Shield to Queensland for the first time in two years.

The Harvey Norman NSW Women's Origin team put in a fast-finishing performance before losing to Queensland for the first time since the concept was rebranded to Origin in 2018.

DECEMBER

Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues coach Brad Fittler, NSW Women's Origin captain Kezie Apps and True Blue Nathan Hindmarsh visit Narooma to address local teenagers about the importance of mental fitness before hosting a free football clinic.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

DR GEORGE PEPONIS OAM, NSWRL CHAIRMAN

The NSWRL experienced a challenging season in 2020 with the state battling deadly bushfires at the start of the year before the COVID-19 pandemic struck and swept across the globe with devastating consequences. It was a tough time for my first year as Chairman of the new Board after the NSWRL and the CRL came together at the end of 2019 and we faced many difficult decisions.

We had to do business in an entirely different way with most Board meetings conducted via video technology in line with COVID-19 restrictions. I hope the worst of the pandemic is now behind us and I am pleased to report the business has been set up to make a quick recovery and ensure the game of Rugby League will continue to prosper and survive into the future.

I was thrilled to see community football return in July after competitions had to be put on hold to minimise the threat of coronavirus. Grassroots football has always been the lifeblood of the NSWRL and we knew that it had an important role to play in helping getting life back to as normal as possible for the community. The fact that more than 84,000 participants for both men's and women's competitions for all age groups registered to play reflected just how important the game is to the community.

The NSWRL was also able to resume its successful Try League program in 2020, which introduces the game of Rugby League to culturally and linguistically diverse communities. Eight programs were attended by almost 200 children in locations including Coffs Harbour, Lismore, Glenwood, The Ponds, Revesby, Parramatta and Minchinbury. It was the first time programs had been held at Coffs Harbour and Lismore while the clinic at Parramatta attracted a record number of participants.

Other community trips included Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues coach Brad Fittler visiting areas in regional NSW to deliver important road safety messages for The Knock-On Effect Transport for NSW campaign. The NSWRL also came up with a range of measures worth more than $500,000 to assist communities which had been affected by the bushfires, including providing free football boots for children aged 12 and under and funding insurance premiums. I was also happy the NSWRL could get three major competitions back on the field after the difficult decision had been made to cancel several of them when COVID-19 took hold in March. The Presidents Cup, Harvey Norman NSW Women's Premiership and Sydney Shield threw up plenty of action and it was great to attend Bankwest Stadium in September for Grand Final day. Every match went down to the wire and I'm thrilled that the Presidents Cup will be retained with an exciting new format which will bring the state even closer together.

We did not get the result we were after in the Ampol State of Origin series or the Harvey Norman NSW Women's Origin match, but I was pleased to see the fight from both teams in the games played at the end of the season. The Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues fought back from a game down to level the series at 1-all in Sydney before just missing out on the decider in Brisbane. Although we were unable to get the win in Game One, it was great to play at such a historic venue at Adelaide Oval. I was happy to see the players don an alternative strip from the 1997 State of Origin series to acknowledge one of our most popular jerseys over the event's 40-year history.

The Harvey Norman NSW Women's Origin team staged a late comeback but just missed out in an historic first match on the Sunshine Coast. I am confident that both teams will bounce back in 2021 and the Shields will return to NSW.

The support of our partners proved invaluable during this season and I acknowledge them all. I am confident that the organisation is in good shape and wellpositioned to achieve more success in 2021.

CEO'S REPORT

DAVID TRODDEN, NSWRL CHIEF EXECUTIVE

To say that season 2020 was unprecedented for NSWRL would be to seize upon one of the most over-used words in the English dictionary of recent times. However, there are few words other than "unprecedented" which can adequately describe the year we had in 2020.

The most common reference point for the COVID-19 crisis has been the Spanish Flu pandemic which hit Australia at the end of the First World War. That pandemic affected all levels of the community including the Rugby League community. A number of well-known Rugby League players died from the disease.

However, it is difficult to imagine the impact of that pandemic, almost exactly 100 years ago, could have been more dramatic than the effect of the COVID-19 pandemic in 2020 in relation to our competitions. With the Spanish Flu, by April 1919 when the Rugby League season commenced, government public order restrictions had been eased and the NSW Rugby League competition was allowed to proceed. Newspapers of the time occasionally refer to players being unable to play because they had contracted the flu and in other cases, they refer to forfeits and cancelled fixtures both in Sydney and in regional areas. However, the Rugby League community, and the community in general, battled through the crisis and for the NSWRL, the 1919 season was completed without undue complication.

When you compare the impact of the Spanish Flu pandemic with that of COVID-19 on NSW Rugby League competitions, the effect of COVID-19 was substantial. Our competitions were suspended until mid-July and in quite a significant number of cases, competitions were cancelled (including our major competitions). However, just as the Rugby League community did in 1919, the NSWRL community rallied in support of our sport and the recommencement of our competitions in July 2020 saw more than 84,000 participants competing. Sporting clubs are often the focal point of our community groups and the resumption of sport was a signal to the community-atlarge that we could and would get through the crisis.

Our volunteers are the lifeblood of our game but in season 2020, never have they been so important for us. As many as 5000 coaches, 8000 trainers, 10,000 general volunteers and 2000 referees provided their time to the community in circumstances whereby in addition to all of their normal (and onerous) volunteer obligations, we asked them to take on the heavy responsibility of ensuring compliance with COVID-safe protocols. The fact that they did so - and with great success - is a massive tribute to them and they should never underestimate the impetus that this gave to their community. Certainly, I will never forget their support.

Before COVID-19, the year had already got off to a difficult start after the summer bushfires ravaged parts of our state to leave some clubs facing an uncertain future. We announced a range of initiatives worth more than $500,000 to assist those communities that were affected including funding insurance premiums, combining with Steeden to supply all football requirements free of charge, and teaming up with boot manufacturer Score Zone to supply free football boots for players under 12. Our Junior Representative competitions started as normal in February and we enjoyed a successful season launch for our major competitions in March before the coronavirus pandemic struck. We monitored the pandemic situation and stayed in constant contact with the NSW Government and NSW Health knowing that sport had an important role to play in helping the community to heal.

We were eventually granted permission to resume playing in July and I was thrilled by the response we had in the community. Clubs were required to complete COVID-19 safety training to get back on the field which they did for competitions including juniors, seniors and Blues Tag. I was also pleased to see the return of our Try League program for culturally and linguistically diverse communities and we were also able to stage major competitions in the Presidents Cup, Sydney Shield and Harvey Norman NSW Women's Premiership.

The Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues and Harvey Norman NSW Women's Origin team did not get the results they were after but I would like to congratulate both our teams for their efforts in the 2020 Origin arena. Brad Fittler, his coaching staff and the players worked tirelessly and I am confident they will return the Shield to NSW in 2021. Our women's team is also determined to make amends and reclaim the Shield they held from 2018-19.

On a business level, the financial statements contained within this report show the NSWRL is in a healthy position to not only survive difficulties such as 2020 presented but to continue to reinvest in the game of Rugby League and deliver strong programs and competitions across the state of NSW. We are able to do this after our long-term and responsible approach to careful cost management.

The organisation is also in a position of strength moving forward with it now being a full year since the NSWRL and the CRL came together to operate as one entity. We have already released our One State Strategic Plan for next season which will bring the game in regional NSW and the Sydney metropolitan area closer together and set it up for even further success into the future.

A special thank you goes to our partners, who are individually acknowledged elsewhere in this report, for their valued support and ongoing contribution to the NSWRL. These include Brydens Lawyers, The Star, Lion, nib, Canterbury, McDonalds, Harvey Norman, Transport for NSW, Gatorade, University of New England, KARI Foundation, Steeden, Monarch, Accor Hotels, Pain Away, CABE Investments, Compass Corp, I Want 2 Work, My Sports Tape, Sydney Olympic Park Authority, Murrays Coaches, Sydney Markets, Arthur J. Gallagher and Leagues Club Australia.

This season has been more challenging than ever before and the NSWRL remains grateful for the support they have provided. We are proud to have them as part of the NSWRL family.

Finally, I thank NSWRL Chairman Dr George Peponis OAM and his Board for their ongoing support, as well as the talented and dedicated staff I work with at the NSWRL. I am confident in the direction the organisation is heading and I look forward to the success we will achieve in 2021.

ONE STATE STRATEGIC PLAN

The NSWRL announced an exciting new blueprint for Rugby League across the state in September which will bring the game in regional NSW and the Sydney metropolitan area closer together and set it up for even further success into the future.

The One State NSWRL Strategic Plan (Competitions) has been a work in progress since the NSWRL and the CRL came together as one entity in 2019 and aims to administer the game more efficiently across the state to increase the recruitment and retention of all participants.

The plan includes the restructure of the state into six zones of approximate equal sizes in terms of participation numbers to promote a competitive balance, reduce travel times for younger age groups and allow for more efficient and consistent governance structures.

Other elements of the plan include increasing the number of officials at grassroots level, enhancing the competition and development pathways for women and girls and creating a statewide competition at Ron Massey Cup level.

There will be an age change for Junior Representative Competitions in 2021 with the Sydney metropolitan competitions including the Jersey Flegg Cup moving to Under 21s, UNE SG Ball Cup and the Harvey Norman Tarsha Gale Cup to Under 19s and the UNE Harold Matthews Cup to Under 17s.

In the Regional NSW Competitions, the Laurie Daley Cup will remain Under 18s while the Andrew Johns Cup will remain Under 16s.

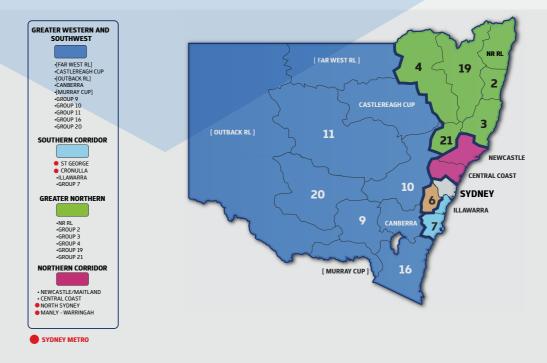

The creation of a statewide competition at Ron Massey Cup level follows the success of the Presidents Cup competition in 2020. The Presidents Cup was a unique competition involving teams from regional NSW and the Sydney metropolitan area which replaced the Ron Massey Cup that had to be cancelled because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Grand Final was a true reflection of the competition with regional NSW team Maitland Pickers beating the Sydney-based Glebe-Burwood Wolves 17-16 in a thriller at Bankwest Stadium.

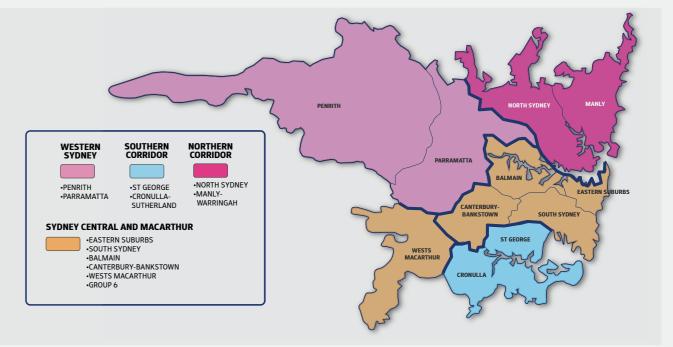

The revamped competition sees a Central Conference (Ron Massey Cup), Northern Conference (Newcastle) and Southern Conference (Illawarra) who will all play a regular season.

The winners from each conference plus one wildcard from the remaining teams will then face off for the Presidents Cup in a knockout finals format spread over two weeks. It is planned to add another Western Conference for the 2022 season which will eliminate the need for a wildcard.

MEDIA COVERAGE

The NSWRL enjoyed solid media coverage in 2020 despite COVID-19 having a major impact on the number of competitions it could administer. The digital and social channels became an even more important means to communicate with fans which was reflected in the analytics. The Blues App set a record when NSW went into lockdown in April with 344,479 views. This compared with the previous record of 290,374 views which was set in June 2019 at the height of the Origin period.

The decision in July to introduce the Presidents Cup competition alongside the Harvey Norman NSW Women's Premiership and Sydney Shield received positive coverage. The Grand Final Day at Bankwest Stadium, which saw Maitland Pickers take out the Presidents Cup, the Central Coast Roosters the Harvey Norman NSW Women's Premiership and Cronulla-Caringbah Sharks the Sydney Shield, attracted coverage from across the state including the Newcastle Herald, Maitland Mercury and local Sydney community radio stations.

The season finished strongly with the Ampol State of Origin series and the Harvey Norman Women's State of Origin being played in November. Both teams were in a biosecurity bubble to manage the threat of COVID-19 which presented new challenges with interviews having to be conducted in line with social distance guidelines, including remotely via video technology. The Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues extended squad headed into camp on the NSW Central Coast in late-October to prepare for the three-game series in November. They trained at Morry Breen Oval in Wyong with a large contingent of media attending to interview players after the sessions and after the games in Adelaide, Sydney and Brisbane.

The Harvey Norman NSW Women's Origin team also did well in terms of local coverage on the Sunshine Coast following the decision by the Queensland Government to not allow any visitors from the greater Sydney area over COVID-19 concerns.

The Origin games dominated their timeslots although the ratings were not as high as the previous year. The opening game at Adelaide Oval attracted a national audience of 2.38 million, Game Two had 2.43 million while the Game Three decider drew 2.73 million. The Harvey Norman Women's Origin game attracted a national audience of 452,000. It has already been announced the Origin fixtures will return to their traditional mid-season timeslot for 2021.

REPRESENTATIVE FOOTBALL

BRAD FITTLER, BRYDENS LAWYERS NSW BLUES HEAD COACH

The 2020 Ampol State of Origin series was a difficult result to take as it was the first time I had experienced a series loss as a coach but it was also something I will learn from.

The COVID-19 pandemic meant the series had to be shifted to November after the completion of the NRL season to help manage the threat of coronavirus and hopefully allow enough time for crowds to return. That timeline presented new challenges for me and my coaching staff as we kept tabs on our players throughout the NRL season when it resumed in May. We lost several players through injury who had already represented the Blues in Tom Trbojevic and Latrell Mitchell and others who were in contention in Victor Radley and Kotoni Staggs. Their loss was countered by the players who made their debuts throughout the series including Luke Keary, Junior Paulo, Clint Gutherson, Nathan Brown and Isaah Yeo. I congratulate all of them and I'm sure they will be part of the NSW Origin landscape for many years to come.

I was confident in the players we selected for the series with our camp starting at the Pullman Magenta Shores on the Central Coast on 19 October. We named an initial squad for players whose teams missed out on the NRL's Finals Series and added to it every week after that as more teams were gradually eliminated. Players had to be in a biosecurity bubble to minimise the threat of COVID-19 but we tried to make that experience as enjoyable as possible after coming up with activities that had been ruled safe to participate in including painting, basketball and golf.

Our preparation for Game One in Adelaide was strong and I was confident we would give a good account of ourselves. We had to fly in and out on the day of the game because of COVID-19 and started the match strongly after taking a 10-0 lead by halftime. Unfortunately, we were unable to contain a Queensland fightback in the second half and they hung on to win the match 18-14 to take a 1-0 lead in the series. The result proved even more costly after our captain Boyd Cordner withdrew from the rest of the series due to a head knock while we also lost Cameron Murray to a hamstring injury. Both Cordner and Murray had formed a big part of our plans for this series and it was tough to lose players of their calibre after only one game.

We regrouped for the next game before our fans in Sydney and I was always confident the players would respond in a positive fashion. They turned in a much better performance and powered away for a 34-10 win. I was pleased for all our players, particularly our halfback Nathan Cleary who applied plenty of pressure on Queensland with a flawless kicking game. We knew the third and deciding game in Brisbane would be a challenge but we were confident we would be able to handle it if we could improve even further on our performance from Game Two.

We managed to overcome an early try to the Maroons to level the scores at 6-all but the match changed complexion when our captain, James Tedesco, left the field with a concussion. I was impressed by the way the team fought their way back into the match and we were still a chance to level the scores with just under 10 minutes to go but unfortunately it wasn't to be and we lost 20-14. Cleary was later awarded the Brad Fittler Medal after a vote from his teammates while the coaching staff gave the True Blue Award to Daniel Saifiti for being the player who best displays the qualities upon which the team ethos is built.

Origin will return to its traditional mid-season timeslot in 2021 and we have already begun our preparations to ensure the Shield returns home to NSW. I am confident with the players that we have and the coaching and support staff around me that we will be able to get the job done.

BRYDENS LAWYERS NSW BLUES

SOO MATCH REPORT

The Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues surrendered the Ampol State of Origin Shield for the first time in two years after a hard-fought series against Queensland which saw both states affected by the COVID-19 pandemic which had swept the globe.

The opening game of the series was held at Adelaide Oval on Wednesday 4 November. The Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues started strongly with tries to Damien Cook and Josh Addo-Carr before halftime. Queensland fought back in the second half to take the lead with three unanswered tries before Addo-Carr scored with five minutes to go to keep our hopes alive. Unfortunately, time ran out and the Blues went down 18-14 to go 1-0 down in the series. The loss was compounded after captain Boyd Cordner and Cameron Murray were ruled out for the rest of the series through injury.

Brad made changes for the second game at ANZ Stadium in Sydney on Wednesday 11 November with Cody Walker starting at five-eighth for Luke Keary, Angus Crichton for Cordner, Payne Haas promoted to the starting team, Dale Finucane joining the bench, while Isaah Yeo and Nathan Brown were named to make their debuts. The Maroons scored early but from that point on it was all NSW on the back of a superb kicking game from halfback Nathan Cleary. The Blues took an 18-4 lead into half-time and went on with the job in the second half after running out 34-10 winners to level the series at 1-all. True Blue Andrew Johns praised Cleary and said he could not remember a more dominant kicking game from a NSW No.7 in an Origin match.

The boys were confident heading into Game Three at Suncorp Stadium on Wednesday 18 November but faced several challenges with the Queensland Government not allowing fans from the Sydney area to attend the game, increasing the stadium to full capacity, and preventing the team from staying at a hotel in the lead-up over COVID-19 concerns. The Blues and the Maroons were locked up at 6-all midway through the first half when captain James Tedesco left the field and did not return with a concussion. The Maroons surged to a 20-6 lead before the Blues fought back to cut the deficit to 20-14. Addo-Carr looked certain to score with minutes remaining but was taken out of the contest by Queensland fullback Corey Allan. Allan was sent to the sin bin for a professional foul but Addo-Carr was ruled to be too far out for a penalty try. The Blues never stopped trying but couldn't close the gap and went down 20-14 to surrender the Shield to the Maroons for the first time in two years.

Brad will be confident of turning things around in 2021 with Origin returning to its traditional mid-season timeslot while stars who missed this year's series through injury, including Tom Trbojevic and Latrell Mitchell, are in the frame to return.

HARVEY NORMAN NSW WOMEN'S ORIGIN

The Harvey Norman NSW Women's Origin team faced a difficult season because of COVID-19 before the NSWRL confirmed the Harvey Norman NSW Women's Premiership would still go ahead with a revised start date in July. The NRL also announced the Harvey Norman NSW Women's Origin match would be moved to the end of the season and held on the Sunshine Coast on Friday 13 November.

The NSW Women's Origin team has held the Origin Shield for the past two years since the concept was rebranded in 2018 with both games being played in front of NSW fans at North Sydney Oval. This year marked the first time a women's Origin match was played at Sunshine Coast Stadium and the game sold out with the Queensland Government's strict COVID-19 restrictions preventing fans from Sydney attending the game.

The team gathered at the NSWRL Centre of Excellence on Friday 30 November and travelled to the Sunshine Coast to a biosecurity bubble at the Novotel Twin Waters Resort in line with COVID-19 protocols. The team trained at the Twin Waters Resort and Sunshine Coast Stadium in preparation for the match.

The Maroons were the first to score through fullback Tamika Upton before NSW hit back when captain Kezie Apps chased through a kick behind the line from halfback Melanie Howard. They headed to the break locked together at 6-all before Queensland took control with three unanswered tries in the second half to establish a 24-6 lead. NSW fought back hard with three tries in the final 10 minutes but were unable to land any of the conversions to go down 24-18 and hand the Origin Shield over to the Maroons for the first time.

NSWRL COMPETITIONS

PRESIDENTS CUP

The Presidents Cup was a unique competition that was created for the 2020 season because of COVID-19 and involved teams from regional NSW and the Sydney metropolitan area.

It spanned nine rounds from 18 July with a two-week finals series that culminated with the Grand Final on Sunday 27 September.

The competition featured nine clubs throughout regional and metropolitan NSW including Maitland Pickers, Glebe-Burwood Wolves, North Sydney Bears, Hills District Bulls, Thirroul Butchers, Wentworthville Suburbs Magpies, Western Rams, Dubbo CYMS and Western Suburbs Wollongong.

The third-placed North Sydney Bears started the season in strong form to win six of their first seven games before being eliminated by Glebe-Burwood in the opening week of the finals.

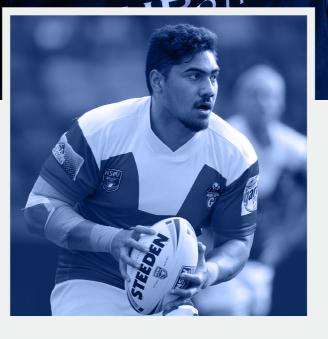

Hills District, despite finishing in fourth spot and falling short of the Grand Final, boasted the equal-best defensive record with just 98 points conceded.

The Thirroul Butchers were unlucky to miss out on the top four with five wins and only points differential stopping them from playing in the finals.

Rounding out the remaining positions on the final standings were Western Suburbs Wollongong, Dubbo CYMS, Wentworthville and Western Rams.

Maitland faced off against Glebe-Burwood in the Grand Final at Bankwest Stadium after both sides finished first and second respectively at the end of the regular season.

The decider was a hard-fought encounter with the key moment coming after former NRL player Brock Lamb slotted a field goal to clinch a 17-16 win for the Pickers.

HARVEY NORMAN NSW WOMEN'S PREMIERSHIP

The Harvey Norman NSW Women's Premiership was revamped in 2020 after the competition was suspended because of COVID-19 and it restarted in July with seven teams and nine rounds plus a finals series.

The teams which took part included South Sydney Rabbitohs, Cronulla-Sutherland Sharks, North Sydney Bears, Wentworthville Magpies, Wests Tigers, Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs and Central Coast Roosters.

The competition took on even more significance as it provided players with an opportunity to play before the Harvey Norman Women's Origin match scheduled for 13 November on the Sunshine Coast.

The Roosters remained the favourites to win the competition after boasting a roster that included Kylie Hilder, Isabelle Kelly and Hannah Southwell. Other teams were also strong with Maddie Studdon, Keeley Davis and Corban McGregor playing for Cronulla-Sutherland Sharks while Kirra Dibb, Shontelle Stowers and Simaima Taufa were at the North Sydney Bears.

The Harvey Norman NSW Women's Premiership included a historic first during the regular season with a match being staged at the NSWRL Centre of Excellence for the first time between the Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs and the South Sydney Rabbitohs.

The Roosters claimed the Minor Premiership after finishing the season with 13 competition points while the Sharks were just behind on 12.

The Bears, Wests Tigers, Bulldogs and Rabbitohs rounded out the teams for the finals after they all finished on seven competition points with only for and against separating them.

The Roosters booked their place in the Grand Final after a 13-12 win over the Sharks while the Bears won three consecutive elimination finals to make the decider.

The Roosters took an early 10-0 lead in the Grand Final before the Bears fought back to close the gap to 14-10 and set up a grandstand finish.

Ultimately, it was the boot of halfback Melanie Howard that proved the difference after she landed a penalty goal to put the Roosters up 16-10 and seal the premiership. It was back-to-back titles for NSW Women's Origin representative stars Hilder, Kelly, Southwell and Howard after they won the competition with CRL Newcastle in 2019.

SYDNEY SHIELD

The 2020 Sydney Shield consisted of nine participating sides across Sydney in an 11-week competition, including a top four finals series.

Defending premiers Ryde-Eastwood Hawks were deservedly the team to beat going into the finals after finishing the season in outright first with the competition's best attack and defence (266 points scored, 132 conceded) and only one loss to their name.

Cronulla-Caringbah Sharks benefitted from having former NRL star Michael Lichaa as their captain, and he was a driving force in their second-place finish to the season.

Belrose Eagles, a side that featured True Blue Jamie Buhrer, took out third spot with 13 competition points, while Helensburgh Tigers earned the remaining spot in the finals with a 5-3 record.

Hills District Bulls finished just one point outside the top four with four wins and a draw, followed by Moorebank Rams, Sydney University, East Campbelltown and Wentworthville United.

It was a high-scoring affair in the Sydney Shield Grand Final as the Cronulla-Caringbah Sharks fought back for a 32-30 win over the Ryde-Eastwood Hawks.

Lichaa was dominant in the No.9 role for the eventual premiers, while a Brent Anderson hat-trick, a double for Daniel Perkins and a Hayden Fepuleai try were enough to secure victory for the Sharks.

UNE SG BALL CUP

The UNE SG Ball Cup competition for Under 18s expanded from a 17-team competition to 18 teams in 2020 with the Warriors fielding a side.

The other 17 teams taking part included Balmain Tigers, Canberra Raiders, Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs, Central Coast Roosters, Cronulla-Sutherland Sharks, Illawarra Steelers, Manly Warringah Sea Eagles, Newcastle Knights, North Sydney Bears, Parramatta Eels, Penrith Panthers, West Coast Pirates, Sydney Roosters, South Sydney Rabbitohs, St George Dragons, Western Suburbs Magpies and the Victoria Thunderbolts.

The opening round of the competition was affected by wet weather in Sydney but still went ahead with four matches being played while four others were postponed.

Newcastle opened their season with a draw against Manly Warringah Sea Eagles, had a bye in round two but remained unbeaten after that to take top spot on the table with 11 points from six rounds.

The Knights boasted players who had taken part in the NSW Under 16s match against Pasifika in 2019 including Oryn Keeley, Fletcher Myers and Jonah Pezet.

The teams behind the Knights included the Raiders (10), Panthers (9), Rabbitohs (9), Sea Eagles (8), Steelers (8), Warriors (8), Roosters (8), Tigers (8), Bulldogs (7), Eels (6), Thunderbolts (6), Sharks (4), Magpies (4), Dragons (2), CC Roosters (2), Bears (2) and the Pirates (0).

The SG Ball Cup was suspended in March because of COVID-19 and the decision was made not to award the premiership. The competition will return in 2021 with the age group to go up to Under 19s.

LAURIE DALEY CUP

The Under 18s Laurie Daley Cup entered its third season with 12 teams taking part.

These teams included Penrith Panthers, GSR Wests Tigers, North Coast Bulldogs, Northern Rivers Titans, Central Coast Roosters, Newcastle Knights, Greater Northern Tigers, Parramatta Eels, Illawarra South Coast Dragons, Western Rams, Riverina Bulls and Monaro Colts.

In the opening round, Illawarra South Coast began their title defence with a 20-12 victory at Penrith and the Western Rams showed their attacking prowess in a 42-16 win against Riverina at Spooner Oval, while Nicholas Smith produced a hat-trick of tries as North Coast defeated Central Coast 36-16.

Northern Rivers Titans, who were made up of a host of players from the 2019 premiership-winning Andrew Johns Cup team, made their intentions known in Round Two with a 54-16 victory over the Knights.

Fullback Jaylan De Groot crossed the try line on four occasions and needed only two minutes to score his first after evading three defenders in the attacking zone and reaching out for the line.

Round Three saw the Dragons and Monaro battle it out in Bega as part of the EISS Super Sapphire trial tribute between the Penrith Panthers and Parramatta Eels and defending premiers Illawarra produced an impressive 44-18 showing to put them firmly in the top three.

The Bulldogs were on top of the Northern Pool table after five rounds played with seven points and three wins while in the Southern Pool the Titans were in first place with six points and two wins when the competition was shut down due to the coronavirus pandemic.

The Laurie Daley Cup will return in 2021 with a 10team competition and with many teams partnered with NRL clubs, it will continue to provide representative opportunities for regional players throughout NSW.

HARVEY NORMAN TARSHA GALE CUP

The Harvey Norman Tarsha Gale Cup for Under 18s women entered its fourth season in 2020 where it was played in a 13-a-side format for the first time.

The teams which took part included Canberra Raiders, Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs, Cronulla-Sutherland Sharks, Illawarra Steelers, Newcastle Knights, Parramatta Eels, Penrith Panthers, St George Dragons, Sydney Roosters Indigenous Academy and Wests Tigers.

The opening round of the competition was disrupted due to wet weather in Sydney with only one game played with Canberra beating Parramatta in Canberra.

The Steelers boasted Harvey Norman NSW Under 18s player Teagan Berry who grabbed a hat-trick in their opening win against Wests Tigers in Round Two. Berry grabbed another hat-trick against St George Dragons in Round Four and four tries against Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs in Round Six.

The Steelers, who won the competition in 2019, remained unbeaten on top of the table with five wins and 10 points when the competition was shut down due to the coronavirus pandemic and the decision was made not to award a premiership.

They were followed by the Sharks (8), Dragons (7), Roosters Indigenous Academy (7), Raiders (6), Bulldogs (4), Wests Tigers (4), Eels (3), Knights (2) and Panthers (2).

The Harvey Norman Tarsha Gale Cup will return in 2021 with the age group to go up one year to Under 19s.

UNE HAROLD MATTHEWS CUP

The UNE Harold Matthews Cup for Under 16s remained a 15-team competition in 2020 and provided an important pathway for the next generation of Rugby League stars to come through.

The teams who took part included Balmain Tigers, Canberra Raiders, Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs, Central Coast Roosters, Cronulla-Sutherland Sharks, Illawarra Steelers, Manly Warringah Sea Eagles, Newcastle Knights, North Sydney Bears, Parramatta Eels, Penrith Panthers, Sydney Roosters, South Sydney Rabbitohs, St George Dragons and Western Suburbs Magpies.

The opening round of the competition was affected by wet weather in Sydney with only two games being played.

The Bulldogs proved a formidable force in the early rounds and racked up some huge wins including a 52-0 win over the Rabbitohs in Round Two and a 40-0 win over the Roosters in Round Four.

Their team included centre Paul Alamoti who crossed for three tries for the NSW Under 16s team which faced Pasifika in 2019.

The Bulldogs were on top of the table on 12 points after six rounds when the competition was shut down because of coronavirus and the decision was made not to award the premiership.

They were followed by the Eels (10), the Panthers (10), Sea Eagles (8), Knights (8), Sharks (6), Bears (6), Raiders (6), Magpies (6), Tigers (5), CC Roosters (5), Rabbitohs (4), Steelers (2), Roosters (2) and the Dragons (2).

The UNE Harold Matthews Cup will return in 2021 but the age group will go up to Under 17s.

T

ANDREW JOHNS CUP

The Under 16s Andrew Johns Cup season started strongly with a 12-team competition in its first year of administration under the NSWRL banner.

The teams which took part included Penrith Panthers, GSR Wests Tigers, North Coast Bulldogs, Northern Rivers Titans, Central Coast Roosters, Newcastle Knights, Greater Northern Tigers, Parramatta Eels, Illawarra South Coast Dragons, Western Rams, Riverina Bulls and Monaro Colts.

Round One games were played in Penrith, Tuncurry, Forbes, Sydney and Newcastle and Western Rams and Penrith were the only remaining undefeated teams after two rounds.

Penrith amassed 66 points in that time after a 26-0 win against the Riverina Bulls - which included a David Afu hat-trick - while the Rams fought back for a 12-point victory over Monaro at Belconnen.

Round Three was a highlight as Illawarra and Monaro went head-to-head as the curtain raiser for the EISS Super Sapphire trial tribute between the Penrith Panthers and Parramatta Eels at Bega Recreation Ground in support of bushfire recovery efforts on the NSW South Coast. The Dragons claimed an 18-14 victory thanks to a two-try effort to centre Jack Piccirilli, who also booted three conversions to help his side prevail.

After five rounds, the Panthers sat atop of the Southern Pool ladder with four wins and eight points and in the Northern Pool, Parramatta were the frontrunners with seven points and three wins when the competition was shut down due to the coronavirus pandemic.

The Andrew Johns Cup will return in 2021 with a 10team competition and continue to provide an important representative pathway for regional players.

NSWRL COMMUNITY

COMMUNITY

COMMUNITY FOOTBALL

It goes without saying that 2020 was a year like no other for Community Football with the worldwide COVID-19 pandemic delaying the start of Rugby League across the state and, at various stages, threatening to prevent the game being played at all.

NSWRL Chief Executive David Trodden worked closely with his counterparts from other NSW sports and through their cooperation and consultation with the NSW Government health and sport officials negotiated for community sport to start in July and for the winter season to extend into October.

The fact NSWRL managed to run competitions for more than 80,000 participants across metropolitan and regional New South Wales over a 10-week period was a credit to everyone involved.

A very big thank you goes to all clubs, Rugby League participants, staff, officials and volunteers for the role they played in keeping community sport alive by adhering to the NSW Government's guidelines in what was a fluid and unpredictable environment.

All clubs were required to appoint COVID-19 marshalls and submit COVID-19 safety plans, with participants, officials and spectators also having to adhere to new guidelines and regulations for the protection of the broader community.

Participation

As a result of COVID-19, overall participation was down by 21 per cent with 84,875 registering to play in the modified and shortened season.

More than 90 per cent of clubs were able to open for the season, which ran for 10 rounds plus finals in most areas across the state.

The NSW Government's Active Kids initiative proved popular again with the Rugby League community, with 72,380 Active Kids vouchers, valued at $6.94 million, redeemed in 2020 (33 per cent increase on 2019). The vouchers were a huge hit with female participants with girl's Rugby League the biggest mover in the Active Kids top 10, moving up to sixth after being outside the top 10 in 2019.

Grassroots support

The NSWRL introduced a number of significant initiatives valued at more than $500,000 for clubs in areas affected by the catastrophic bushfires over 2019-20 Summer.

This included a partnership with Score Zone that saw free football boots worth $250,000 donated to junior players aged 12 and under from clubs and towns across the NSW South Coast that were affected by the bushfires.

Clubs also benefitted from several changes including insurance premiums being reduced for players and clubs and a recurring cash injection of $300,000 per annum into bush football clubs following a redistribution of revenue from the logo licensing scheme.

All teams in regional NSW, like their counterparts in metropolitan Sydney, received a free match ball from NSWRL, with the support of Steeden; and Blues Tag teams received their tags free of charge.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, the NSWRL provided regular communication and resources for clubs to enable them to get Rugby League up and running in challenging circumstances.

Sanitiser, wipes and signage were delivered to all clubs free of charge, in addition to training and other resources being available online.

Cambridge Park became the 50th club to be awarded Blue Shield status since the program's inception in 2018. In total, 22 clubs achieved the honour in 2020 in the NSWRL's Blue Shield program, which recognises and rewards the willingness and capacity to run a quality community sporting club.

Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues coach Brad Fittler personally delivered and presented the two major NSWRL Volunteer of the Year awards to the respective winners in Kiama and Lithgow, with COVID-19 forcing the cancellation of an official presentation function.

The awards recognise the invaluable contribution made by almost 25,000 people who give up their time as volunteers, officials, coaches and referees to ensure NSWRL is able to run Community Football at more than 700 clubs across the state. They also acknowledge the support given in the wider community as well as to the Rugby League community.

The Kiama Knights JRLFC Secretary and Assistant Treasurer Kristine Laird was chosen from the 10 regional winners as the NSWRL "Gordon Lowrie" Volunteer of the Year, while the Lithgow Bears RLFC won the coveted NSWRL Grassroots Club of the Year award in a challenging year severely affected by the COVID-19 pandemic and the devastating bushfires in the pre-season.

The NSWRL donated more than 2000 footballs, $20,000 of merchandise (shirts, caps, singlets and shorts) 1000 Blatchys Blues supporter wigs and shirts, 500 football boots and hundreds of signed jerseys to schools, community groups, football clubs, charities and others in need throughout the state in 2020. This is in addition to the Grassroots support outlined earlier in this report.

NSW volunteers were also recognised nationally, with Lithgow winning the Kayo NRL Community Award for Grassroots Club of the Year; while NSW Wheelchair Rugby League Founder Joseph Chidiac won the Volunteer of the Year award.

COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

Regional Visits

Led by Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues coach Brad Fittler, the NSWRL ran free footy clinics, mental fitness sessions, Transport for NSW The Knock-On Effect presentations, BBQs and other activities at various regional towns and clubs across the state.

The number and type of activities were limited because of the ongoing changes around the NSW Government's Public Health Orders and COVID-19 guidelines and restrictions.

Fittler was joined by True Blues and NSWRL Ambassadors Greg Alexander, Nathan Hindmarsh and Steve Menzies, former NRL referee Gavin Badger and Gotcha4Life Foundation Chairman and Founder Gus Worland at different times during trips to towns including Griffith, Orange, Dubbo, Maitland, Tumut, Queanbeyan and Ballina.

CALD to Try League

The NSWRL's multicultural Try League program for Culturally and Linguistically Diverse (CALD) communities was attended by almost 200 children across eight locations in 2020 despite COVID-19 limiting participation and delivery throughout the middle of the year.

The final program of 2020 at Parramatta attracted a record 58 participants, while the program was delivered in regional NSW for the first time at Coffs Harbour and Lismore. Other locations included Glenwood, Fairfield, The Ponds, Revesby and Minchinbury.

The Try League program is backed by the Federal Government (Move It AUS program) and State Government (Multicultural NSW) and first took place in 2018, involving 70 children.

The program has attracted interest from a variety of different cultural groups representing countries including India, Philippines, China, South Africa, Fiji, Lebanon, Romania, Sri Lanka and Turkey.

The NSWRL also participated in an international webinar series with the Australian-Indian Sports Educational and Cultural Society with students, teachers and coaches across the globe about the opportunities and benefits of playing Rugby League and the success of the Try League program.

#RESPECT

Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues coach Brad Fittler and stars from the men's and women's State of Origin teams threw their support behind the 2020 #RESPECT campaign run by the NSWRL, which called on players to give the "thumbs up" before the start of play.

The #RESPECT campaign started in 2016 with about 16,000 pledges being made online and a push to reintroduce shaking hands before games in line with the NSWRL's vision to eliminate poor behaviour and promote a positive environment for all players, coaches, referees, volunteers and families.

Since the implementation of the #RESPECT campaign and upgrades to the Tough Love in League initiative, there has been a significant reduction in dismissals and offences in NSWRL Conference Competitions.

Changing Rooms

The NSWRL's Changing Rooms program was impacted by COVID-19 and the disrupted Junior Rugby League season but still proved an important and valuable resource for the football community when in need.

The program, facilitated by True Blue Paul Langmack, in partnership with mental health provider Youth InSearch, targets males and females aged 14-20, offering support around coping with life challenges off the field.

Generally, the program is held in the club changing room after training on a weekly basis over a 12-week period. With a shortened competition season and COVID-19 protocols restricting group and indoor gatherings, a modified version was held for the Kellyville Rangers; along with sessions providing support after critical incidents affecting junior club members.

Indigenous Participation

The NSWRL expanded its Deadly Blues campaign to help improve the health of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities across the state in 2020, with a healthy cooking and eating program to complement the ongoing health checks preventative care initiative.

The NSWRL is in the second year of a three-year partnership with the Institute for Urban Indigenous Health (IUIH) Deadly Choices program which aims to empower Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples to make healthy choices for themselves and their families – to stop smoking, to eat good food and exercise daily. The program is backed by the Australian Government with a commitment of $1.2 million over three years.

In the Deadly Blues campaign's first year in 2019, 5000 Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples took the important step of attending any of the participating Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Services in NSW and the ACT for a full health assessment and to receive preventative health messages. Everyone who undertook a health check received a free NSWRLinspired Deadly Blues shirt.

NSWRL Foundation

The President of the NSW Legislative Council, the Hon. John Ajaka, was appointed NSWRL Foundation Chairman in February, after the inaugural Chairman, former NSW Barry O'Farrell AO, stood down to take up a role as Australia's High Commissioner to India.

The Foundation approved for grants of $10,000 each to be made to the Gotcha4Life Foundation and Father Chris Riley's Youth Off The Streets.

Mr Ajaka made a presentation to the Gotcha4Life Foundation Chairman and Founder Gus Worland at Parliament House. Gus Worland teamed up with Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues Coach Brad Fittler in 2020 to help improve the mental fitness of the Rugby League community.

They began working together in the months leading up to the 2020 Ampol State of Origin Series visiting Rugby League clubs and communities in Griffith, Canberra, Queanbeyan and Tumut who had experienced challenging times.

DIRECTORS' REPORT

COMPANY SECRETARY

Mr David Trodden was appointed to the position of Company Secretary on 6 June 2013. Mr Trodden is also the Chief Executive of the Company.

PRINCIPAL ACTIVITIES

The principal activities of the Company during the course of the financial year were the fostering and propagation of Rugby League in New South Wales and the Australian Capital Territory.

Company performance is constantly measured against

- Demographic analysis of participation numbers, potential players, and lost players,
- Feedback from member clubs and other key stakeholders,
- Budgets,
- Media profile indicators, and
- Performance of New South Wales Rugby League teams.

OPERATING AND FINANCIAL REVIEW

The surplus from ordinary activities for the year ended 31 October 2020 amounted to $1,805,541 (2019: $2,161,820). This surplus is inclusive of a $715,000 writeback of bad debts recovered, which had been fully provisioned in the 2020 financial year.

Coronavirus impact on the operations

The COVID-19 pandemic significantly impacted the operations of the Company during the financial year. As is consistent across the game, the Company's revenue was impacted due to a significant reduction in grant funding from the ARLC. All competition operations ceased in March 2020 in line with all Rugby League bodies, with most major competitions abandoned. During this period the Company was forced to reduce the days worked by staff. As a result the Company saw a reduction in competition related expenses.

SIGNIFICANT CHANGES IN THE STATE OF AFFAIRS

In August 2018, a memorandum of understanding was signed with the Country Rugby League of New South Wales Ltd (CRL) to hold formal discussions with a view to having a single governing body for Rugby League in New South Wales.

At an extraordinary meeting held on 18 October 2019, the members of New South Wales Rugby League Ltd voted unanimously to adopt a new constitution. The CRL resigned as a member of the NSWRL. The new constitution recognised the admission of former members of the CRL, to membership of the NSWRL. Membership of the NSWRL recognised members to be classed as Club Members (Metropolitan) or Regional Members. The structure of the Board composition was also amended, under the new constitution. This amendment recognised the appointment of directors from both the Club Members class and the Regional Members class.

At a prior meeting of the CRL, the previous members of the CRL voted to approve a voluntary winding up of that company. A resolution was passed, to acknowledge the New South Wales Rugby League Ltd as the sole beneficiary of surplus assets following winding up. The CRL entity is presently in liquidation.

NSWRL agreed to the transfer of employment of former CRL staff, effective from 1 November 2019.

DIRECTORS' REPORT

EVENTS SUBSEQUENT TO REPORTING DATE

There has not arisen in the interval between the end of the financial period and the date of this report any transaction or event of a material nature, likely in the opinion of the Directors, to affect significantly the operations of the Company, the results or state of affairs of the Company.

ENVIRONMENTAL REGULATION

The Company's operations are not subject to any significant environmental regulations under either Commonwealth or State legislation.

LIKELY DEVELOPMENTS

The Directors do not anticipate any other developments in the operation of the Company which would significantly affect the operating result in subsequent years relating to current performance.

INDEMNIFICATION AND INSURANCE OF OFFICERS

The Company has provided for and paid premiums during the year for directors' and officers' liability and legal expenses insurance contracts.

The insurance premiums relate to:

- Costs and expenses incurred by the relevant officers in defending proceedings, whether civil or criminal and whatever their outcome.
- Other liabilities that may arise from their position, with the exception of conduct involving a wilful breach of duty or improper use of information or position to gain a personal advantage.

The directors have not included details of the nature of the liabilities covered and the amount of the premium paid in respect of the directors' and officers' liability and legal expenses insurance contracts, as such disclosure is prohibited under the terms of the contract.

DIRECTORS' MEETINGS

The number of directors' meetings, including meetings of committees of directors held and attended by each of the directors of the Company during the financial year are:

Emphasis of matter - basis of preparation and restriction on use and distribution

We draw attention to the Notes to the Summary Financial Statements, which describes the basis of preparation.

The Summary Financial Statements have been prepared to assist the Directors of New South Wales Rugby League Limited for the purpose of reporting to the members. As a result, the Summary Financial Statements and this Auditor's Report may not be suitable for another purpose. Our opinion is not modified in respect of this matter.

This Independent Auditor's Report is intended solely for the members of New South Wales Rugby League Limited and should not be used by or distributed to parties other than the members of New South Wales Rugby League Limited. We disclaim any assumption of responsibility for any reliance on this Independent Auditor's Report, or on the Summary Financial Statements to which it relates, to any person other than the members of New South Wales Rugby League Limited or for any other purpose than that for which it was prepared.

Other Information

Other Information is financial and non-financial information in New South Wales Rugby League Limited's Annual Report which is provided in addition to the Summary Financial Statements and this Independent Auditor's Report. The Directors are responsible for the Other Information.

The Other Information we obtained prior to the date of this Independent Auditor's Report was the Directors' Report and the Directors declaration from the audited financial report dated 16 December 2020.

Our opinion on the Summary Financial Statements does not cover the Other Information and, accordingly, we do not express an audit opinion or any form of assurance conclusion thereon.

In connection with our audit of the Summary Financial Statements, our responsibility is to read the Other Information. In doing so, we consider whether the Other Information is materially inconsistent with the Summary Financial Statements or our knowledge obtained in the audit, or otherwise appears to be materially misstated.

We are required to report if we conclude that there is a material misstatement of this Other Information, and based on the work we have performed on the Other Information that we obtained prior to the date of this Independent Auditor's Report we have nothing to report.

Responsibility of the Directors for the Summary Financial Statements

The Directors are responsible for the preparation of the Summary Financial Statements in accordance with the basis of preparation described in the Notes to the Summary Financial Statements, including their derivation from the Audited Financial Report of the Company as at and for the year ended 31 October 2020.

KPMG

Independent Auditor's responsibility for the Summary Financial Statements

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on whether the Summary Financial Statements are consistent, in all material respects, with the Audited Financial Report based on our procedures, which were conducted in accordance with Australian Auditing Standard ASA 810 Engagements to Report on Summary Financial Statements.
