FROM THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

NSW Rugby League competitions continue to grow from strength to strength – and this will be even more so in 2018 when more Intrust Super Premiership NSW matches are broadcast than ever before.

For the first time in the history of the competition, matches will be screened weekly on both FOX SPORTS and the Nine Network – ensuring more fans access the competition and its players, via the media, than ever before.

We are also preparing for our biggest season ever with the return of the Jersey Flegg Cup (Under-20s competition) and the affiliation of Newcastle Rugby League, taking the number of competitions administered by NSWRL to nine.

The NSWRL season was again another fantastic spectacle in 2017, with the Panthers prevailing over Wyong in a grand final of the highest order in the Intrust Super Premiership NSW competition.

On an historic day at Leichhardt Oval in which NSWRL staged four deciders, Wentworthville (Ron Massey Cup), St Marys (Sydney Shield) and Redfern (Harvey Norman Women's Premiership) were also crowned champions – with the finals series reaching more people than ever before through NSWRL.com.au's live-stream service.

The talent across all ages throughout the state, though, has generated interest and captivated fans right around NSW, with both senior and junior representative competitions providing great entertainment for our fans – and great stories for media.

On that note, I'd like to thank the media's ongoing support, both working and volunteer media, of the NSWRL and its competitions and I look forward to seeing you throughout the year.

Enjoy season 2018.

David Trodden
CEO NSW Rugby League

I won't always be here
to hold you, little one.
So I write these words as arms around your shoulders.

Welcome to this ever-changing world,
where everything has a shelf life
and the safe and familiar will tomorrow give way to the unknown.

Your world can change in a moment.
And when it does, I want you to be like water; to take on any form. It's not the fittest that survive, my darling, but the most adaptable. Be brave, be strong and don't be afraid to follow your dreams.

I ask that you open your mind to endless possibilities. Never stop learning and never stop trying. Knowledge is power and persistence brings it to life.

Now that education is at your fingertips, who you are is far more important than where you are. So, above all, be yourself and never feel anything less than priceless.

The future belongs to you.

Love, Mum xx

STATE OF ORIGIN

FROM THE BRYDENS LAWYERS NSW BLUES COACH

It is an honour to be coaching the Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues in the 2018 Holden State of Origin series, Australia's most watched sporting event.

Former coach Laurie Daley has done a great job bringing in the next generation of Origin players in this state and I look forward to further developing those stars and creating a period of sustained success in the years ahead.

I hope to see NSW players play with pride and passion, and I look forward to talking to the media after what we are aiming to be a series victory in 2018 ... but I'm under no illusion how tough Queensland will prove as opponents.

To the media, thank you for your coverage of this iconic sporting event and we wish you an enjoyable and memorable 2018 season.

See you at the footy.

Brad Fittler
Brydens Lawyers NSW Blues Coach

STATE OF ORIGIN HISTORY

Australia's greatest sporting rivalry started in 1980, when the dominance of NSW warranted a change in eligibility criteria to level the playing field in the annual interstate Rugby League clash now known as the State of Origin.

NSW had been historically stronger than Queensland in residence-based interstate clashes, winning 75 per cent of games between 1908 and 1956 and then only losing 12 more matches until 1980.

By the late 1970s, interstate clashes in Australia held diminishing relevance and the one-sided affairs justified the rejuvenation of the concept, indicated by the NSWRL's decision not to host either match played in 1977. It was soon after this series that a "state of origin" rule was suggested north of the border, with the NSWRL agreeing to the concept in 1980.

With the first two residence-based interstate games in 1980 going the way of NSW, a one-off State of Origin match was played, which Queensland won in a major upset. The animosity between the two states – regardless of players' club allegiances – was clear from day one and State of Origin was born.

The 38 years since have seen countless memorable moments, all of which add to the rich tapestry of Origin. The miraculous game-winning try from Mark McGaw in Origin I, 1987; the conversion in the rain from Michael O'Connor in Origin II, 1991; the farewell of Brad Fittler in 2004; the incredible return of Andrew Johns in 2005; the sight of Steve Mortimer kissing the Lang Park turf after securing the state's first series win in 1985; and Larryd Hayne embracing the crowd having reclaimed the shield after eight successive defeats.

Today, State of Origin is consistently among the most-watched TV programs in Australia, also drawing huge attendances at venues around the country.

New coach Brad Fittler will hope the NSW will continue to add to the state's proud history with a victory in 2018.

COACH OF THE YEAR

ROBERT 'RIP' TAYLOR
WYONG ROOS

For the second time in three years, Wyong Roos coach Rip Taylor has been named as the Intrust Super Premiership NSW coach of the year. His Wyong side cruised to the minor premiership after only dropping one game up until Round 18, but have since had shaky form to finish the season proper. Nevertheless, he has most of his team back for the first round of finals next week, and his Wyong side are still certainly the team to beat.

WOMEN'S PATHWAYS

The pathway for women and girls Rugby League has been strengthened yet again in 2018, with the formation of a complete NSWRL participation and elite representative system.

Following on from a successful 2017, which saw the introduction of the Harvey Norman Tarsha Gale Cup (for under-18 females) and the Harvey Norman NSW Women's Premiership (premier open women's competition), the NSWRL will implement further changes to cater for significant increases in female participation.

The major additional features of the female pathway are:

- Women's and girls competitions are available for under-14s, under-16s, under-18s and open-age divisions in all NSWRL districts
- Girls competitions are now also available in the Penrith District for under-6s to under-12s
- The under-16s Lisa Fiaola Cup Gala Day, scheduled for 14 July, completing the junior representative pathway for girls in the age group below the Tarsha Gale Cup
- Five existing NRL and Intrust Super Premiership NSW clubs will now field teams in the Harvey Norman NSW Women's Premiership, increasing the competition to nine teams.

Grand Final		Sat-Sun, 22-23 Sep

THE RETURN OF JERSEY FLEGG CUP

The Jersey Flegg Cup returns in 2018 after a 10-year absence, with the NSWRL reviving the historic competition following the cessation of the NRL-run under-20s National Youth Competition (NYC).

The major difference to the NYC is that no Queensland or Victorian teams will play in the Jersey Flegg competition.

Matches are played in 35-minute halves and the Grand Final will be played alongside the Intrust Super Premiership NSW, Ron Massey Cup and Sydney Shield, one week prior to the NRL Grand Final.

Eleven NSW clubs as well as the New Zealand Warriors have entered teams to make a 12-team competition in line with the Intrust Super Premiership NSW.

Ten of the 12 teams will enter a team under their NRL brand, with only the South Sydney Rabbitohs (North Sydney Bears) and Canberra Raiders (Mounties) affiliating with their feeder club for the competition.

JERSEY FLEGG CUP HISTORY

Named after Harry ‘Jersey’ Flegg – who played for the Eastern Suburbs in 1908 and 1909, and was a prominent administrator of the game up until 1960 – the competition began as an under-19s age group until the NRL’s formation in 1998.

The Jersey Flegg Cup competition was originally held as part of the NSWRL’s junior representative season that was played over 9-12 weeks at the beginning of the new year.

The Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs are the most successful team in the history of Jersey Flegg, winning nine premierships since the competition commenced in 1961, including four premierships in five years between 1999 and 2003.

The most dominant season came in 2004 when the Sydney Roosters created history by taking out the competition’s honours without losing a match that year.

Penrith Panthers won the last edition of the Jersey Flegg Cup in 2007.

SG BALL CUP HISTORY

The SG Ball Cup is the New South Wales Rugby League's junior representative competition for players aged under 18.

The competition was founded in 1965 and is named after SG "George" Ball, one of the five people responsible for the formation of the South Sydney Rabbitohs, and who was club secretary for more than 50 years.

The competition includes junior representative teams of NRL clubs and Intrust Super Premiership NSW clubs that do not field a team in the NRL competition. In 2009 the Melbourne Storm was admitted to the competition, and in 2010 the competition continued its national growth with the introduction of the West Coast Pirates from Perth.

Parramatta Eels are the defending premiers and the most successful club in the competition having won 12 premierships.

NEWCASTLE RUGBY LEAGUE HISTORY

After competing in the inaugural New South Wales Rugby League Premiership in 1908 and 1909 the Newcastle Rugby League broke away to form the local competition in 1910.

The four original teams were Central Newcastle, Northern, South Newcastle and Western Suburbs.

The season kicked off on 14 May 1910 with South playing West and Central playing Northern Suburbs. South Newcastle finished the season on top of the ladder and the final was played in front of 2500 spectators at Hamilton League Ground, with Central overcoming South 13-4.

Western Suburbs remain the competition's most decorated club, with 22 premierships in the league's 108-year history, while defending champions Macquarie Scorpions won their maiden title in 2017.
